Approval of Minutes

Minutes from the October 20 meeting were approved.

Breeze Conferencing Software

Negotiations on licensing the Macromedia Breeze software package are underway as part of a multi-campus arrangement. The former plan to license the product separately has been abandoned.

Update on Web Site Conversions

Steve Carr and Mike Kanning distributed the latest status report on web site conversions, as well as the departmental web conversion checklist. OAA is providing funding for additional staff to expedite the project in academic affairs. The plan is to have two areas converted by the end of the year. Efforts to update content have been more significant than had been anticipated, making the project more than just a conversion. Arrangements are also being made to license a content management system that will be easier to use than Dreamweaver.

Update on “Studio M”

Studio M (for Mastodon) is scheduled to be completed and opened by May 15. A coordinator and a technician will be hired in the spring. Walb 221A is the designated location. Students are the intended customers for the studio. Faculty will be able to schedule the studio to work with their students. Faculty can also work in the CELT area on course-development projects. The Studio will still be available, on a scheduled basis, for students developing, and practicing for, class presentations. A formal opening will be scheduled early in the fall semester.
Update on Wireless Access
Bob Kostrubanic reported that public area access has been available for about a year. ITS staff is working on problems with reliability. Secure client software is also an issue. A pilot project is being organized to introduce the use of next generation access point equipment. Planning for outdoor access is also underway. New arrangements are also being made for generating guest accounts.

Other
Bob Kostrubanic reported that ArcGIS has been found to be incompatible with MS Access.
Bob Kostrubanic also reported that the state has released funding for expansion of I-Light2 network access. The project will include connections for this area of the state.
