Open Access Publishing

Shannon Johnson (johnsons@ipfw.edu)

For information on academic publishing, predatory journals, publication outlets, and resources devoted to open access go to IPFW Helmke Library’s Publishing Resources.

The IPFW Open Access Policy was adopted in April 2015 by the IPFW Senate. The policy grants the university rights to post scholarly articles in our institutional repository, Opus. The policy can be used when negotiating copyright with non-open access publishers. More information can be found at Open Access@IPFW: Introduction.

Questions? Contact your librarian for personalized assistance listed at our Subject Librarians site.

Scholarship of Engagement—Students and Communities

Ann Marshall (marshala@ipfw.edu), Deb Poling (polingd@ipfw.edu), Sherrie Steiner (siteiners@ipfw.edu)

We have collected a well-developed bibliography for you at our Scholarship of Engagement site.

IPFW has resources to support your work in the scholarship of engagement. Find out more at the Office of Academic Internships, Cooperative Learning, and Service Internships.

Our campus also has resources for faculty and students and information on service learning conferences available at our What is Service Learning? site.[Faculty resources include criteria for IPFW courses, concepts and models from different disciplines, sample syllabi, syllabus guidelines, and grant opportunities.]

Textbook Proposal, Authoring, and Publication Process

Martha Coussement (coussemm@ipfw.edu), Irwin Mallin (mallini@ipfw.edu)

Salkind (2005) gives a list of proposal stages at his site on Writing a Textbook Proposal.

Elsevier gives detailed guidelines at its site on How to Write and Submit a Book Proposal. [This site gives a good feel for Elsevier’s expectations. Each publisher has its own requirements and templates, so you would need to find YOUR publisher’s specifications.]

Bartanen (2014) raises issues and provides abundant resources on Digital Scholarship and the Tenure and Promotion Process.

IMPORTANT: Regarding the fit of textbook publishing with promotion and tenure, consult (1) your department and campus promotion and tenure criteria, and (2) campus Promotion & Tenure Resources.
Writing and Publishing Ethnographies

Sarah LeBlanc (leblancs@ipfw.edu)

Sample journals that have published ethnographic manuscripts: Journal of Contemporary Ethnography; Journal of Consumer Research; The Journal of Pop Culture; Qualitative Inquiry Journal; Journal of Loss and Trauma: International Perspectives on Stress & Coping; Death Studies; Women’s Studies in Communication; Journal of Family Communication, Women and Language Journal; The Symbolic Interaction Journal; International Journal of Sociology and Anthropology. There are others, too.

From Teaching and Research to Scholarly Publications

Pam Reese (reesepeg@ipfw.edu), Michelle Kearl (kearlm@ipfw.edu), Kate White (whitek@ipfw.edu)

IPFW CELT (Center for the Enhancement of Learning and Teaching) has a section devoted to Scholarship of Teaching and Learning. It includes: SoTL definition, Conferences, Journals, and Resources.

The Association of College & Research Libraries (ACRL) has a Selective List of Journals on Teaching & Learning and provides links to more information on the journals.

Publishing and Support when English is a Second Language

Jeong-Il Cho (choj@ipfw.edu), June Kim (june.kim@ipfw.edu), Atefeh Mohammadpour (atefeh.mohammadpour@ipfw.edu)

Hartley, J. & Sheridan, V. (n. d.). Resources for writing academic English when English is not your first language. Available at http://www.ease.org.uk/publications/ease-toolkit-authors/how-write-scientific-paper/resources-writing-academic-english-when [This resource lists books, papers, and experiences of authors from different countries.]

University College London has a course on Academic Writing in English.

Curry, M. J. (2015, March 20). Getting published in English—it’s not just about language [Web blog post]. Available at https://doctoralwriting.wordpress.com/2015/03/20/getting-published-in-english-its-not-just-about-language/ [This resource includes additional references that may be of interest to you.]

From Writing Circle to Publication

“Ludy” Ludwika Goodson (goodsonl@ipfw.edu)

Our IPFW Faculty Writing Circle Guide has our "Writing Circle Mission and Protocols." Our top priorities: commitment, confidentiality, schedule of writing time together, reporting of progress and next steps, and encouraging and supporting each other’s scholarly writing and publications.

Chris Golde at Wisconsin-Madison has Tips for Successful Writing Groups for groups in which you want the writers to exchange and review each other’s works.

If you want to start a writing circle, we have several ways to support you: contact goodsonl@ipfw.edu