IPFW Graduate Research Assistantship

The Office of Graduate Studies is pleased to announce one Graduate Research Assistantship. The purpose of the award is to support IPFW strategic initiatives and to further graduate student research goals. The OGS Research Assistantship will be awarded competitively to a graduate student who has demonstrated excellent potential for pursuing research. Faculty or departments should submit the application on behalf of the student (see below) which demonstrates:

- Significant involvement by the student in a specific research program
- Potential for publication or presentation involving the student
- Potential impact of the research project
- Applicants should demonstrate the potential for significant community or regional impact.

The award will provide one-year funding for one .50 FTE Graduate Research Assistant. Standard Purdue Graduate Assistant benefits and enrollment requirements will apply. Awardee will need to submit a report on the student's success at the conclusion of Spring Semester 2018.

A letter of support from the department chair or unit head and a copy of the sponsoring faculty member's curriculum vitae should be attached.

Submit all materials to:
Carol Sternberger
Director of Graduate Studies
