Department of Economics

Position title:
Assistant Professor of Economics

Type of appointment:
Tenure-track

Discipline:
Economics

Area of Expertise:
Risk management, financial economics, econometrics, or quantitative methods

Qualifications/Requirements:

Ph.D. degree in Economics is required. While candidates in all areas of economics will be considered, preference will be given to candidates who specialize in risk management, financial economics, econometrics, or quantitative methods and can teach courses related to these areas. Prior teaching experience is also preferred.

Employment is contingent on a satisfactory background records check.

Duties:

Main teaching responsibilities include undergraduate economics and MBA-level courses. The candidate is expected to publish in quality refereed economics journals in order to maintain academic qualifications per AACSB standards.

Description of the department:

IPFW’s Department of Economics has a dedicated group of seven faculty members who earned their degrees from quality universities located throughout the United States. The Department of Economics services the needs of students who are fulfilling the requirements for an economics major through the B. S. degree offered through the Doermer School of Business as well as those fulfilling the requirements for an economics major in the B. A. degree offered through the College of Arts and Sciences. In addition to the degree programs in economics, the Department meets the needs of students in MBA programs offered through the School of Business and a wide variety of majors with an interest in learning about the economy and decision-making.

Description and location of the university:

Indiana University–Purdue University Fort Wayne (IPFW) is the largest university in northeast Indiana, offering more than 200 prestigious Indiana University and Purdue University degrees and certificates. More than 13,000 students of diverse ages, races, and nationalities belong to the IPFW family. The 688-acre campus in Fort Wayne is home to nearly 10,000 degree-seeking undergraduate and graduate students. Through IPFW’s partnerships with area high schools, almost 3,300 high school students take dual-credit courses, simultaneously earning both high school and college credits. IPFW is accredited by The Higher Learning Commission of the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools. Learn more about us at ipfw.edu.
